Refined comfort
for working lounge areas

Reframe Lounge Furniture
Part of the Herman Miller Collection

Casual spaces that support collaboration are among the most popular spots to work in most offices. Even as the typical office footprint is shrinking, the popularity of these spaces keeps growing. Reframe Lounge Furniture brings comfort and a distinctive aesthetic to a mix of collaborative and individual work settings.

Reframe Lounge Chairs address a range of functional needs with three back heights, all of which are built upon a common wood base. Reframe Tables share the same internal logic as the lounge chair, with round, square, or rectangular tabletops that complement the crisp upholstery lines of the chairs.

Functional Range

Reframe Lounge Chairs are available in three back heights. Low and open, the mid-back is designed to encourage conversation. The high-back offers a bit more support, while the wing-back goes even further, almost wrapping the sitter to encourage focus and limit peripheral distractions. Used thoughtfully across an office landscape, the Reframe family allows workers to choose the chair that suits the task at hand.

The wing-back chair is designed to be closed and protective and limit peripheral distractions.

The three available back heights of the Reframe Lounge Chair extend its functionality to a range of work settings designed to support casual meeting or working.

Design

The designers at EOOS set out to create a family of upholstered lounge seating with a strong internal logic. By starting with a common base, minimal in appearance but clearly visible on the outside of the upholstered form, they were able to unify the seat, backrest, legs, and stretchers of the lounge chairs both visually and technically. The same internal logic extends to a line of coordinating tables, which are also built on a common base.

About EOOS

“For us, design is a poetic discipline,” says Gernot Bohmann, who, along with Harald Gründl and Martin Bergmann, comprise the design firm EOOS. Based in Vienna, Austria, these three have been making poetry together in the form of furniture, objects, and spaces since 1995.
