

Memo

Benching that's better by design

We increasingly do a lot of different activities at work. But providing a myriad of complex products that are expensive to buy and harder to manage and maintain is not always the answer. The solution can be much simpler – able to meet a wide range of needs whilst avoiding over complicated specification and installation. Memo is designed to help companies be more agile. Re-inventing the desk structure to make it more relevant, Memo provides an efficient platform that helps users find whatever place best suits their task.
